Resolution To Congress . . . Unicam Proposes Abortion Reversal

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Friday gave overwhelming first stage approval to a resolution requesting Congress to propose a U.S. constitutional amendment overturning the Supreme Court's recent decision on abortion.

Resolution 23 gained 33-3 initial floor approval after a strained debate which carried 50 minutes into the senators' normal lunch hour.

The resolution seeks a constitutional amendment guaranteeing the protection of "all unborn human life" by extending constitutional rights, including due process of law, to the unborn.

Guarantee Sought
The proposal seeks a constitutional guarantee that "no human life be denied protection of law or be deprived of life on account of age, sickness, stage of development or condition of dependency or unwantedness."

LR23 was designed to precede a new abortion control bill across the legislative board, placing the Legislature on record as opposed to the Supreme Court decision before it considers a bill to implement it.

Without the bill LB286, scheduled for debate next Monday, Nebraska would be left without any law controlling abortions.

The Supreme Court decision wiped out the state's strict anti-abortion statute and guaranteed a woman's right to abortion without any state controls during the first three months of pregnancy.

'Emotionalism, Religion'
Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha attempted to kill Friday's resolution, arguing that it is based on "emotionalism and religious arguments," neither of which should be considered by the Legislature when it confronts a legal issue.

The Chambers motion fell on a 4-33 vote, with only three Lincoln senators — Wally Barnett, Steve Fowler and Shirley Marsh — supporting him.

Fowler and Mrs. Marsh, the Legislature's only woman member, joined Chambers in voting against advancement of the proposal.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff urged his colleagues to move swiftly to advance the resolution, noting that it has the baking of "those who embrace the Catholic faith."

Remind Public
The resolution is needed to remind the public that the Legislature's action is anti-abortion, as is LB286, Sen. Ralph Kelly of Grand Island said.

Sen. Harold Moylan of Omaha agreed that the resolution should be approved before the Legislature proceeds to act on the bill.

Mrs. Marsh attempted to add an amendment which would have broadened the proposed constitutional change to guarantee that no one could be deprived of life on account of sex, nationality, political beliefs or conviction of crime.

Her proposal would have outlawed capital punishment and, she noted, removed two "excuses" for abortion, namely the child's anticipated sex or nationality.

Amendment Withdrawn
Confronted by considerable opposition, Mrs. Marsh withdrew the amendment before it could be submitted to a vote.

"Don't cloud this up with capital punishment," Sen. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha protested.

Friday's debate was highlighted by a remarkable philosophical, theological and sociological exchange between Chambers and Sen. John Cavanaugh III of Omaha, a supporter of the resolution.

Cavanaugh said a legislative decision should be reached on moral, rather than legal, grounds.

Despite what the Supreme Court held, he said, he believes that "unborn human life is entitled under our Constitution to be considered a person" and that guarantee takes priority over the court's desire to protect the right of privacy of a woman.

'Callous Disregard'
Chambers said he would be more impressed with the Legislature's expressed desire to protect unborn life if it showed less "callous disregard" for the living, including children who need the state's assistance.

The Legislature condemns abortion, but enacts capital punishment, Chambers noted.

LR23 is a "politically expedient" declaration without any real effect designed to create confusion and take the heat off the Legislature, he said.

TAYLOR . . . wants brick in every pot.

Youth in Action 'Brick In Every Pot' Plan Organized By Young Scout

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

A 15-year-old Lincolnite with more than a casual interest in environmental conservation is heading a project he hopes will save southeast Lincoln nearly three million gallons of water this year.

As a community service project for Boy Scouts, Pound Junior High student Mark Taylor is attempting to get 1,900 southeast Lincoln homeowners to put a brick in their toilet tanks.

"A brick in every pot saves water a lot," is the slogan for his campaign, which officially gets under way Saturday.

'Brick In Every Pot'
Mark has contacted Cub Scout leaders in the area, and the young Scouts will hand every homeowner in a neighborhood bounded by 33rd, 48th, Van Dorn and Highway 2 a "brick in every pot" flyer Saturday when they deliver Goodwill Industries collection bags.

Then, next Saturday, Mark and his friends will operate brick-selling stations at three locations — 27th and Highway 2, 48th and Pioneer and 48th and Van Dorn.

The bricks will cost 5 cents each. Mark said that's a small investment considering the quart of water it will save with every toilet flush.

In fact, said Mark, he's calculated with the help of Lincoln Citizens for Environmental Improvement (CEI) that a brick in every tank in each of the 1,900 homes will save 7,600 gallons a day or 2,774,000 a year.

Eventually, said Mark, he hopes CEI (he's a member of the group) will head a similar project for the entire city.

Mark's interest in environmental improvement began several years ago when, as a grade school student in Virginia, a school assistant principal urged students to pay attention to ecology.

'Got Organized'
We got things organized there," he said, "and kept working toward cleaning up the school grounds and the streets" in the Virginia community near Washington, D.C.

"I became accustomed to trying to keep everything clean, to conserve resources," he said.

He said his family makes regular trips to the CEI recycling centers on Saturdays to deposit bottles, cans and newspapers.

The idea for the brick project, said Mark, grew from his involvement in ecology ventures in Virginia before he moved to Lincoln about two years ago and from an article on a similar project in a New Jersey community as reported in Parade, the Sunday Journal and Star magazine.

Mark took up the idea for his community service project for his Eagle Scout badge, and he said he understands it may be the biggest such project undertaken in Lincoln Scouting.

New Fighting Is Reported In Two Areas Of Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — New fighting between army troops and Palestinian guerrillas erupted in two areas of Lebanon late Friday, marring an uneasy cease-fire that had ended two days of heavy fighting and claimed at least 87 lives.

Guerrilla broadcasts from Cairo charged Lebanese artillery and air force jets shelled and strafed their positions near the villages of Aihia and Rachaya Foukhar.

Aihia is near the Syrian border across which Palestinian reinforcements stormed late Thursday at the height of the fighting in the capital Rachaya Foukhar is in the southeast corner of the country near the Israeli border.

Defense Minister Fuad Ghosn said the fighting stopped after four hours, and a joint truce team went to the area.

In the capital and its environs a cease-fire held up from dawn to dusk without incident as guerrillas and authorities sought a new formula for coexistence.

But a curfew, lifted only for a two-hour period in the morning and a three-hour period just before sunset, remained in effect.

Before the new fighting broke out near the Syrian border, reports from eastern Lebanon said a 5,000-man force from the Palestine Liberation Army that entered the country late Thursday had withdrawn to positions on the border.

Guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat promised Lebanese authorities the troops would return to their base Friday night. Technically he is in charge of the liberation army, a regular force formed in 1964. In fact, it is controlled by Syria.

A Defense Ministry spokesman charged the invading force was made up of "Syrian soldiers in Palestinian uniforms" and reported they still occupied some parts of Lebanon.

Late Friday the Syrian government denied it had anything to do with the liberation army movements "because this army has no Syrian units."

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, partner with Syria in a federation, dispatched a special envoy to Beirut and Damascus to help mediation efforts.

President Suleiman Franjeh had complained to Sadat in a telephone call about the "invasion" from Syria.

Phony Letters Aimed At Discrediting Muskie

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury Friday indicted a paid White House agent, Donald H. Segretti, for illegally publishing phony smear letters apparently aimed at discrediting Sen. Edmund S. Muskie in last year's Florida Democratic presidential primary.

The indictment, handed down in Orlando, Fla., charges that Segretti and another man failed to identify themselves as the true authors of the letters, which accused two Muskies of sexual misconduct. It was mailed to thousands of Florida voters three days before the primary.

The Watergate prosecutors met Friday in Washington with Egl "Bud" Krogh, a former White House aide who hired Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy to investigate publication of the Pentagon Papers. Krogh wouldn't discuss his meeting, but didn't deny reports he is preparing a full public statement of his role in the Ellsberg burglary.

And investigators for the Senate's special committee on the Watergate affair spent the day quizzing two former presidential aides, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman. Afterward neither would discuss what was said. Both had testified before the grand jury Thursday.

Ehrlichman has told FBI agents he found out about the Ellsberg burglary only after it happened.

The letters in the Segretti affair were printed on Citizens for Muskie stationery and purported to be from his staff.

Specifically, the letters said Sen. Humphrey, D-Minn., had been involved in an automobile accident in 1967 with a "known call girl" in his car.

And they said that Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., had fathered an illegitimate daughter in 1929, and in the 1950s was twice arrested "as a homosexual" in Washington, D.C., but wasn't charged.

The letter appeared to make Muskies the author of an obvious smear. Muskies was the leading national contender for the Democratic presidential nomination then, although Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace won the Florida primary and Muskies faded soon afterward.

In an FBI report made public earlier this year, Nixon's personal lawyer, Herbert W. Kalmbach, was quoted as saying he paid Segretti between $30,000 and $40,000 on orders of Dwight Chapin, Nixon's appointments secretary.

The Orlando indictment carries a maximum possible penalty of two years in jail and a $2,000 fine for Segretti and another man, George A. Hearing of Tampa, Fla.

Segretti surrendered in Los Angeles and was taken before a U.S. magistrate, FBI spokesmen said.

He was released on $10,000 personal surety bond after waiving his right to have the case moved to California.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said Watergate is a "traumatic national tragedy" and the task ahead is to "salvage the country's honor from the wreckage of leadership." Kennedy, in an address prepared for the American Society of Newspaper Editors convention, said the "Watergate mentality is at the core of the fight between Congress and President Nixon."

"The same arrogance, the same imperialism, the same blind judgment that led to Watergate is also the attitude that led to other controversies in foreign and domestic policy," Kennedy said.

Rogers, FBI Director Confer On Watergate

(c) Washington Star-News
Washington — Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Acting FBI Director William D. Ruckelshaus have been conferring regularly about Watergate-related matters, including the submission of FBI reports to the judge presiding at the Pentagon Papers trial, federal sources say.

Rogers, who in this case is acting as close adviser and friend to President Nixon, has met at least twice this week with Ruckelshaus, including a session Thursday, the sources said.

At one meeting, both Ruckelshaus and Atty. Gen. designate Elliot L. Richardson consulted with Rogers before sending FBI reports on recent interviews with White House aides H. R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and Bruce Kehrli to U.S. District Judge William Matthew Byrne Jr. in Los Angeles.

Hunt Links White House, CIA To Ellsberg Burglary

LOS ANGELES (AP) — E. Howard Hunt told the Watergate grand jury that a White House aide ordered the burglary of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office and that the Central Intelligence Agency provided a camera and disguises for the burglars, testimony released by the Pentagon papers trial judge revealed Friday.

Hunt told the grand jury that Egl Krogh, then an assistant to presidential adviser John D. Ehrlichman, approved the burglary and handed over money for the operation to G. Gordon Liddy. Liddy, like Hunt, is a convicted Watergate conspirator.

Hunt said that two Cubans were hired to break into the psychiatrist's office — the same Cubans who were arrested in the break-in at Democratic party headquarters in the Watergate complex.

However, he said that when the Cubans entered the office of Dr. Lewis Fielding on Sept. 3, 1971, they could find no files pertaining to Ellsberg in Fielding's file cabinets or desks.

Hunt said the two Cubans were accompanied into the psychiatrist's office by Bernard Barker, a former CIA agent, who also was arrested with the Watergate conspirators.

When the burglary failed to turn up anything, the group considered breaking into the psychiatrist's home but decided not to. Hunt told the grand jury. However, Hunt said he later asked the CIA's "psychiatric unit" to prepare a psychiatric profile of Ellsberg. He said this special section of the CIA, headed by Dr. Bernard Malloy, did provide a report in response, but he did not specify its contents.

Hunt told a cloak-and-dagger tale of plans for the burglary which included nighttime meetings in so-called "safe" houses in Washington. At those houses, he said, he and Liddy met with the CIA men who gave them the camera which was to be used to photograph Ellsberg's psychiatric records and provided them with the disguises. He did not say what the disguises were, but said they were given false identification papers to use.

Hunt said that throughout the operation Krogh was aware of all developments. He said that following the break-in he and Liddy went to a Los Angeles hotel and at 4 a.m. they called Krogh to inform him the burglary had occurred. Later, he said, Krogh was given a full report.

Krogh resigned earlier this week as Undersecretary of Transportation.

After the break-in, Hunt said he tried to tell former White House counsel Charles W. Colson about what had happened. But Colson refused to listen.

Hunt said he went to Colson's office carrying with him a photograph of the rifled file cabinet in Fielding's office and told Colson, "I have something I want to show you that has to do with my actions last weekend." Hunt said Colson told him, "I don't want to hear about it," and rushed into another office.

Hunt said David Young, a former employee of the National Security Agency, also knew about the authorization for the burglary.

Hunt said that he never talked to Ehrlichman himself about the burglary and related matters and does not know if Ehrlichman or any other officials in the White House were informed about it. He said the initial investigation into Ellsberg's psychiatric history was launched because of official fears that Ellsberg might become a political "martyr" if he were prosecuted.

Gen. Haig Is Haldeman's
Temporary Replacement

KEY BISCAIYNE, Fla. (AP) — Moving to reshape a personal staff shaken by the Watergate scandal, President Nixon named Army Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. Friday as interim successor to resigned White House Chief of Staff H. R. (Bob) Haldeman.

Haig, who built a reputation as a trusted troubleshooter on Henry A. Kissinger's top staff, already had moved into Haldeman's office and assumed most of his duties.

The Florida White House announcement of his appointment as a presidential assistant came amid these other developments:

Nixon told his past and present staff members to invoke executive privilege when questioned by Watergate investigators about conversations with the President, conversations among themselves involving communication with the President, or about presidential papers.

The White House singled out David Packard, multimillionaire and former Pentagon official, as the leading candidate for nomination to succeed Elliot Richardson as defense secretary. Richardson was nominated this week to succeed Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst.

World News

The President worked in his bayside office, charting a thorough overhaul of White House staff operations. Indications were that the changes would be announced in the near future.

The resignations of Haldeman and chief domestic adviser John D. Ehrlichman on Monday left gaping holes in the White House top command. They quit amid published charges they were involved in the Watergate bugging conspiracy and subsequent coverup—charges they have denied.

Haig, who played a key role in the Vietnam cease-fire negotiations and undertook a dozen foreign fact-finding missions for Nixon, has been Army vice chief of staff since January. He served for four years on Kissinger's National Security Council staff.

His appointment as a presidential assistant is permanent, but press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said his assignment to handle Haldeman's former duties is an interim move until Nixon decides how to reshape White House operations.

Haig, 48, will remain on active military duty and continue to receive his $36,000 annual base pay as a four-star general. Haldeman, whose salary was $42,500, will clean out his office this weekend and go off the White House payroll soon, a spokesman said.

List Of Cash Gone

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon campaign raised up to $2 million in untraceable cash before the reporting deadline last year, with records of where it came from missing and apparently destroyed, according to testimony unsealed by court officials Friday.

It was the first revelation of the pool of cash from which three reported special funds allegedly were drawn. News accounts alleged they were used to finance political espionage and sabotage on behalf of President Nixon's re-election, including the Watergate burglary.

The testimony was given by Hugh W. Sloan Jr., former treasurer of the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President, last October in a deposition taken in a suit by Common Cause, a citizen's group. It had been sealed by U.S. District Court until Friday.

Sloan testified he kept a journal of cash contributions coming into the campaign, including the names of contributors, dates of the gifts and disbursements.

"There was one working copy of a sort of day-to-day log, of cash contributions, from which a summary sheet had been prepared," he said.

"At Secretary Stans' instruction, I personally destroyed the working copy, as it was no longer deemed necessary, and turned the summary sheet over to the secretary," Sloan added. "I have been since led to understand that that has been destroyed."

Sloan referred to former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans, who was chairman of the Nixon campaign finance committee.

Dean Gives
Key To Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — John W. Dean III, the man President Nixon fired from his White House job, Friday gave court officials the key to a bank safe deposit box which his lawyer said contains classified documents bearing on the Watergate case.

Dean said he had taken the classified papers from his White House office and stashed them in the bank because he feared they might be destroyed.

Dean acted before he was fired Monday, but apparently after his relations with the President had chilled.

'One Dead Man
Wasn't Apache'

Wounded Knee, S.D. (AP) — The elected president of the Oglala Sioux Tribe said Friday that Defense Department records show that one of two men killed during the occupation was a Caucasian of Irish descent and not an Apache Indian as claimed by his widow.

Richard Wilson, the tribal leader, said a man identified as Frank Clearwater of Cherokee, N.C., was known as Frank J. Clear when he was inducted into the U.S. Army in 1943.

Prime Rate Goes To 7%

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the nation's major commercial banks boosted their prime lending rate on Friday 1/4 per cent to 7 per cent, the highest level in 2 1/2 years.

But the banks promised that the increases in the minimum borrowing fee they charge their largest corporate customers wouldn't affect mortgages or consumer loans.

There was no immediate comment on the raises from the Nixon administration's Committee on Interest and Dividends, which supervises bank interest rates as part of the government's anti-inflation program.

First National City Bank, the nation's second biggest, was the first to announce it was raising the prime rate from 6 1/4 to 7 per cent effective Monday. Citibank's move triggered similar announcements by other big commercial banks.

Other banks, including Bank of America, the nation's biggest, retained a 6 1/4 per cent prime rate but many said they were keeping a close watch on the situation.

Citibank, frequently a leader in making changes in the prime, said the adjustment would bring its lending rate "into closer alignment with other money market rates."

The open money market, which is where banks obtain an important part of their lendable funds, consists of financial assets with short-term maturities such as 90-day commercial paper and negotiable certificates of deposit. Interest rates on these funds have recently risen as high as 7 1/2 per cent and the banks are seeking to pass some of this higher cost of borrowing on to their customers.

Daley Pal Indicted

Chicago (UPI) — Alderman Thomas E. Keane, a close political associate of Mayor Richard J. Daley's and a major figure in the city's Democratic power structure, was indicted Friday on charges of conflict of interest, misconduct and conspiracy.

The Cook County Grand Jury also indicted Alderman Edwin P. Fifielski on the same charges. Keane, alderman of the 31st Ward, is chairman of the City Council Finance Committee and as such has managed to control the fate of much of the vital legislation passing through the council.

It has been charged he used his position to make large profits on Chicago real estate deals. Legislation pushed through the council insured the purchases would be profitable. It was charged.

The conflict of interest charges against Keane involved alleged ownership of 375 shares of stock in the Jefferson State Bank of Chicago.

The indictment said the city was party to contracts with the bank and that Keane was in a position to vote on contracts with the bank. He did vote to renew the city's contract with the bank Dec. 3, 1971, it was charged.

Fifielski, alderman of the 45th Ward, owned more than 1,800 shares in the bank, was chairman of its board, and a director, the indictment said. Keane and Fifielski were accused of conspiracy to commit conflict of interest.

'Disastrous Effects'

Kuala Lumpur (AP) — The U.S. plan to dispose of tin from its stockpile will have "disastrous effects" on tin prices and the economies of producing countries such as Malaysia, Thailand, Indonesia and Bolivia, Sen. Chan Kwon Hon said in the Senate.

Kissinger, Soviets Talk

MOSCOW (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger flew into Moscow on Friday to assess Soviet-American relations with General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev and to devise an agenda for the Kremlin chief's trip to the United States next month.

Before his arrival a group of Soviet Jews appealed to him in an open letter for help in emigrating to Israel.

Upon arrival, the White House adviser was escorted to Zavidovo, the country retreat of the Soviet leadership, where he was to confer with Brezhnev and his counselors.

In addition to a program for the second summit between Brezhnev and President Nixon in Washington, Kissinger and the Communist party head were expected to discuss further strategic arms limits, mutual force reductions in Europe, and the direction of bilateral trade and economic cooperation.

U.S. Jobless Rate
Remains At 5%

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate remained at 5 per cent in April despite one of the strongest economic expansions in history, the Labor Department's monthly report on jobs showed Friday.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) noted that the jobs situation has changed little since late last fall, indicating the jobless rate may be hard to move below its current level.

But Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, was optimistic. He said he foresees a further increase in employment and a decline in the jobless rate in the months ahead.

The administration has predicted that this year's strong economic expansion will force the jobless rate down to the neighborhood of 4 1/2 per cent by the end of the year. But it has also said that the booming economy should slow down after the middle of the year, perhaps creating fewer jobs.

The BLS said total employment was unchanged at 83.9 million jobs on a seasonally adjusted basis in April, after large increases in the previous two months.

The number of people out of work remained at 4.4 million, about the same level that has prevailed since last November.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By KINGSBURY SMITH

(Note: William O. Dobler, The Star's editor, is in Washington this week attending the annual meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors. Today's column is by Kingsbury Smith, chief foreign writer for King Features Syndicate.)

ROME — Italy is once again in a sad state, politically and economically. Its 34th government since the end of World War II, the center coalition of Christian Democratic leader Giulio Andreotti, is now considered doomed to fall before the end of this year.

Rendered virtually impotent by factionalism and the unprincipled personal ambitions of political opportunists, the Andreotti regime is expected to be replaced by the same center-left coalition that failed during its previous 10 years of existence to carry out the social, administrative and economic reforms that are regarded as absolutely essential for the country's stability and progress.

Almost constant strikes, the highest rate of absenteeism in Europe — both of which cost Italian industry a loss of over 100 million man-hours of work a year, steadily mounting labor costs (up 45% since 1969), and fleeing capital — $5 billion abroad last year — have all combined to create prolonged economic stagnation.

With the cost of living up 24% in the past two years, the unions are demanding wage hikes that would make Italian goods even less competitive in the world markets than they are at present. Five percent of Italy's work force is unemployed. Half of the million unemployed are university graduates who cannot find jobs.

The Labor Ministry recently estimated that 220,000 of the 250,000 students expected to receive diplomas in the next three years would not find employment through their university degrees — if they ever got a job, at all. Italy's universities, overcrowded with outdated programs, have, in fact, become the country's biggest producer of unemployment.

Government weakness has led to increased violence by both extreme right and left elements. Within four days after rioting, rightist hoodlums in Milan this month killed a young policeman with a hand grenade. Gasoline was poured under the Rome apartment door of a neo-fascist party official and set alight, burning to death his two sons.

Not since the days of Mussolini's fascist terror has Italy witnessed as much political violence as it has experienced during the past 3½ years.

The continuing political instability, economic decline, public discontent and extremist violence has led to a revival of speculation by some foreign observers that Italy is heading for economic chaos and a political upheaval.

Those with more experience of the Italian character and way of life discount this danger. They believe that the Italians, with their peculiar genius for survival and remarkable ability to weather government crises, will muddle through.

For one thing, there is little popular support for extremism of the right or left. Every general election held since the end of World War II has seen the overwhelming majority of the people renew their faith in democracy by voting for the moderate political parties.

The tragedy of contemporary Italy is the mediocrity of its political leadership, not the good will of its people.

PHYLLIS BATTELLE The Solid Defense Of Women Golfers

NEW YORK — It is the golf season again in the Northeast — the irritable season that separates the men from the girls.

Except for devoutly devoted husbands, and golf equipment salesmen, all men seem to dislike women golfers, especially when they come in pairs and tourneys.

The chauvinist theory is that golf is essentially a man's game, and women are duffers-coming-lately who should have had their feet bound at birth like the ancient Chinese women who never ever after went to the links.

But what men forget is that it was Mary, Queen of Scots, who was the first official golf widow I mean, literally, only a matter of days after her husband, Lord Darnley, was fatally sliced, she was out teeing off with Lord Bothwell — at St. Andrews, of course.

Chief and often expressed objections to women on the golf course seem to be these: Women are slow players, women display poor manners on the course forgetting they are "ladies," and women are too damned plentiful.

May I never break 120 if I'm not speaking the truth when I say this is patently ridiculous!

Women golfers are, indeed, plentiful. But isn't everything these days? Besides, there still are only two women for every three men on the nation's golf courses — and some of them are quite small at that.

Taking up that other fault in more detail, the ladies' allegedly slowing down the progress on the golf course: this is an illusion men have enjoyed for decades. The reason is simple: Men are now so hypersensitive about their health and social stature, indeed so hypochondriac in the face of the women's movement, that whenever one is available, they will rent an electric cart to whirl around in their so-called physical activity. Gives them a renewed sense of power.

Women, on the other hand, still enjoy good health, physically and psychologically, and therefore rarely resort to such expensive nonsense unless they are eight months pregnant.

Thus, when a carted or caddied male group has to wait, however momentarily, for a group of female sprinters to hustle down the middle of a fairway, playing the game as it was meant to be played, the men tend to be resentful. Entar.

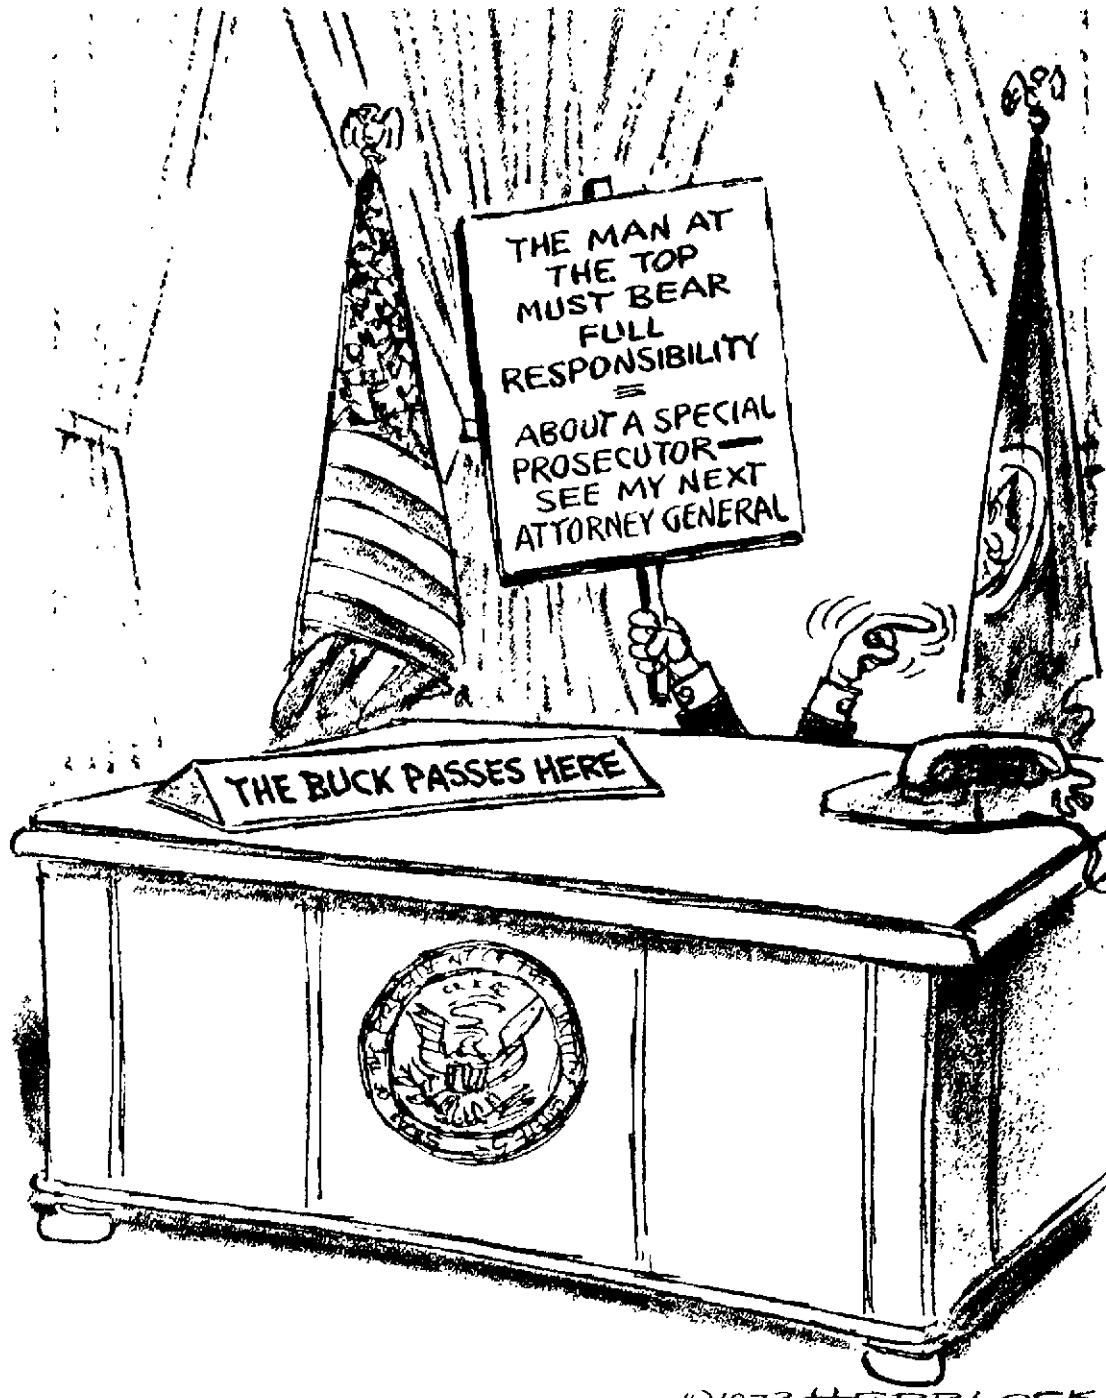

I have found also that women dub more decisively than men do. A man's ego being in a shaky state, he is likely to dub and be downcast for the rest of the game. When a woman golfs, she tends to laugh and go on with the challenge.

As for courtesy on the links, I've found that women — realizing the male resentment — are extra-cautious to wave male groups through if they on rare occasion, misplace a ball. In fact, they bend over backwards and this can be quite uncomfortable, when you're carrying your own clubs to be polite.

But the principal reason why men should appreciate — rather than berate — women on the golf courses of America is: that it is the female sex that keeps golf courses financially healthy. If golf shops couldn't sell those put-backed socks to the girls at outrageous prices, and could not permit women to buy family memberships at ungodly fees; and allow women to raise money for swimming pools and locker rooms through all those wondrous ways women find to raise money — and if they did not encourage women to buy more golf clubs and other equipment for themselves and their men than have ever been sold in the history of pro-shops, where would our golf courses be today?

Some of them might be in existence still but they wouldn't be in fine economic health.

Exon Veto Appropriate

For reasons bordering on the petty, the Legislature passed a bill diluting the governor's control over the Department of Administrative Services (DAS) and now stands ready to over-ride Gov. Exon's veto of the bill.

Supporters of the bill on the Unicameral floor will tell you that DAS has not functioned as the independent agency it was intended to be at its inception and that it has been stingy in sharing information at its disposal, such as revenue projections, with the Legislature.

Those are the supposed reasons. The real reasons have to do with senatorial dislike of present DAS director Gus Lieske, legislative jealousy of the executive branch and an undisguised partisan consideration important to Republican members of the body: the probability that the proposed Governmental Services Commission, which will limit the governor's choice of DAS director, will be dominated by Republican state constitutional officers. For those reasons, the senators seek to alter permanently the separation of powers between the executive and legislative branches.

Gov. Exon has succinctly stated his opposition to the power grab. In the message accompanying his expected veto, the governor said, "You are all familiar with my firm belief that this measure is a serious attempt at legislative invasion of the executive and erosion of the traditional separation of powers. It seeks to impair if not emasculate the ability and effectiveness of the governor to exercise his constitutional duties as chief executive in administering and controlling state government and the monitoring of expenditures.

Exon has bipartisan support for his position from the two former governors, Norbert Tiemann, a Republican, and Frank Morrison, a Democrat, who also worked with DAS under their administrations.

The Constitution of Nebraska, Article IV, Sec. 6, says "the supreme executive power shall be vested in the governor, who shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed and the affairs of the state efficiently and economically administered." The Legislature, while not particularly affecting the functions of DAS, seeks to deny the governor his constitutional power. And for little reason.

Lawmakers should not legislate because of personal conflicts and in a nonpartisan house they should refrain from basing decisions on partisan considerations.

It's hoped that enough senators will come to their senses in time to sustain the governor's veto.

Another Nightmare In The Offing?

President Nixon indicated in his annual State of the World message to Congress that the success of all his efforts to build understanding between the great powers of the world and to re-unite his people at home depends on Hanoi's abandoning its long-cherished goal of uniting the two Vietnams under one flag.

It's as simple as that. Seemingly, the President has decided that Indochina is the key to his "era of negotiations" and his generation of peace.

In pursuing its objectives in South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, Nixon said, Hanoi "would endanger the hard won gains for peace in Indochina. It would risk revived confrontation with us." Translation: the U.S. will go to war in Indochina again — by land, sea or air, it doesn't make any difference; it would still be war — if the allied regimes now in power face collapse. "Rising confrontation with us" are the strongest words yet used by the President since the cease-fire and the numerous violations of it by both sides.

Further, the President said, "If the flames of conflict flare up again, there will be... the danger of another war and a threat to the improvement of relations among the major world powers."

So the seeds of peace and understanding sown so optimistically by the President in China and Russia last year may die before bearing fruit if Hanoi proves to be intransigent. Nixon apparently feels that President Thieu is worth the price.

Perhaps his message is just a bluff. We should hope so. If not, the American people will find that what they are now experiencing is only a brief and fitful sleep between nightmares.

JAMES RESTON

Enter Big John, Softly

WASHINGTON — John B. Connolly of Texas has entered the presidential race by denying that he was doing anything of the sort. "I seek no office, political or appointive," he said in a deception almost worthy of the Watergate.

Why politicians insist on peddling this kind of malarkey, especially at a time when the country is crying for a president who will just speak the truth, is a mystery, but Big John presented himself anyway as a modest character who would just be around in case anybody needed a little help.

"We all serve in different ways," he observed. "John Milton said they also serve who only stand and wait. Hopefully that's the role I can play."

Well, if Big John, like the old puritan divine Milton, has decided to stand and wait and acquiesce in God's will it will be the first time he has ever adopted such a strategy, and it will almost certainly fail.

For one thing is fairly clear even at this very early date in the 1976 campaign. Nobody is going to hand a standing and waiting Connolly the nomination of the Republican party. He's going to have to run like hell and capture it in the primaries, and if he does, he might just take it over.

He has some disadvantages. He is a new boy with some prominent ties to big business, and after the campaign spending scandals of 1972, the Republican alliance with the big spenders is certainly going to be a major issue.

Still, he is probably the most effective campaigner in the field. He has been governor of Texas and secretary of both the Navy and the Treasury, and he has more energy and brass than a 10-ton tank.

It is slightly ridiculous even to make winter book on the likely Republican candidates at this time, but some things are fairly obvious.

Age will be a factor for one thing. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York will be 67 at convention time in 1976. Gov. Ronald Reagan of California will be 65, Connolly 59, Vice President Agnew 57, and Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois, 56.

Rockefeller and Percy will probably be dividing the liberal Republican vote, Agnew, Reagan, and Connolly contesting the conservative Republican vote, and here Connolly will probably have an advantage of appealing effectively across the board and also of picking up some strength in the South and among conservative Democrats.

Much, of course, will depend on whether the present scandals will be forgotten by 1976. The chances are that they will not, and this is bound to hurt Vice President Agnew, who will be identified more closely with the Nixon administration than anybody else.

Oddly, the Watergate scandals have opened up an unexpected opportunity for Elliott L. Richardson of Massachusetts. He has been successively undersecretary of state, secretary of health education and welfare, secretary of defense, and is now on his way to the Justice Department with responsibility for clearing up the Watergate mess.

He has played an odd role in this administration. He came here with the reputation of a highly intelligent and objective man, head of the Harvard law review, clerk to Justice Felix Frankfurter, but the longer he has been here, the more political he has become, which is one reason why there is now so much pressure on him to appoint an outside investigator in the Watergate case rather than running the investigation himself.

Nevertheless, his chance now as attorney general designate is to demonstrate, not his willingness to be a party propagandist for Nixon, as he was in the last campaign, but as a champion of the public interest in a fair but relentless search for the truth.

If he does this, he could emerge as the man who solved the Watergate mysteries, and in this event he could be a formidable compromise Republican candidate in 1976.

YORK

They Had A Dream

A Negro with the single name of "York" was a member of the historic Lewis and Clark expedition which was the first to explore the western wilderness all the way to the Pacific.

York was the "black servant" of Capt. William Clark and he was a "remarkable, stout, strong Negro," according to journals describing the voyage.

Though a servant, York performed the same labors and suffered the same hardships as other members of the party. The wilderness had little respect for a man's rank or race.

York took his turn at provisioning the expedition, hunting buffalo, bear, deer and other game. He also served as guide and scout, and as boatman on the journey up the Missouri River.

It was a rigorous life. The weather was hostile and so were the Indians.

The winter of 1804 saw a number of the men afflicted with frostbite — one of them was York. "My servant's feet also frosted," Clark wrote in his journal.

Clark and Capt. Meriwether Lewis headed up the expedition which had been ordered by President Thomas Jefferson.

Jefferson was curious about the Indians, the flora and fauna and the course of the mighty rivers of the interior.

Jefferson also expected the expedition to open up the interior to a lucrative fur trade and to establish America's claim to the territory.

The expedition moved up the Missouri in 1804 in three boats. The party consisted of nine Kentuckians, 14 soldier-volunteers, two French boatmen, an interpreter and York.

A corporal, six soldiers and nine watermen accompanied the expedition on the first leg of its journey and then returned.

The color of York's skin was a great advantage to the expedition. The Indians along the route had never seen a Negro. They were so curious they forgot to be hostile.

One tribe gave York the name of "Great Medicine." The Nez Perce called him "Tse-mook-tse-mook To-to-kean," or "black white man." In North Dakota, an Indian chief was skeptical about York and agreed that his skin was truly black only after spitting on his finger and attempting to rub off the "paint."

Everywhere, however, the Indians were eager to see York and astonished once they did. York played his role to full advantage.

He frequently performed feats of strength to impress them. Once when a group of Indians flocked around to examine him, York told them a tall tale about how he once had been a wild animal before being caught and tamed by his master.

The tale fascinated them. York's skill in entertaining the Indians partially accounted for the fact that the expedition was carried off without a major Indian encounter.

Learning Value

Lincoln, Neb.
Lincoln Star Sports Editor Hal Brown's editorial, "Making People Happy," was excellent. It is time someone called a spade a spade, especially when reporting has been as prejudiced as it has been in the case of the automobile dealer he cited and many others like him.

Probation serves a purpose, regardless of one's status. It's about time the public began to learn more about these types of programs and learned to appreciate them for their value, rather than kicking a person in the teeth as some are prone to do, especially if they have a little notoriety.

Twilight Zone

Lincoln, Neb.
So noble Nixon has taken the blame — but only the aides have fallen. The don reigns on! The real culprit continues his misdeeds in the usual arrogant way. He made it to the top by using every crooked means known.

The extent of those means becomes more appalling and frightening daily. He'll not change his ways!

He pledged to bring us together. He did!

We are now all under the shadow of the shame and corruption he has brought to that once noble office. The spirit of our open democratic process has been defiled and shamed in his quest for power.

He promised us law and order — we now have federal thugs and goons conducting gestapo-like raids against innocent people, bullying and threatening them in their own homes. Armed hoodlums run amuck, terrorizing nuns and children in our schools. Criminal activity permeates his very oval office.

His "peace with honor" has us handcuffed to a discredited dictator, and sinking to our ears in the same trap in two other countries.

Wake up, America — get off your apathy to see that under Nixon your beloved democracy is entering its twilight!

Pork Prices

Lincoln, Neb.
In reply to Mr. Gerald Bucher's article in the April 26 Star, regarding the "pork bank."

I believe he is wrong in closing his operation and going to town to get a part-time job to survive until Mrs. City Housewife decides that pork is delicious food. Don't make the picketing housewife the scapegoat. Housewives are for the farmers who produce the porkers and if they would join them, then they would help them get a bigger share of the differential between the 35 cents on the hoof and the $1-plus for finished retail prices.

I am not a picketing housewife but a 78-year-old college graduate, a veteran of World Wars I and II. I came to Nebraska in 1929 and have seen 10-cent hogs and $1 corn during the 1930 depression; also 25-cent round and T-bone steaks.

Try to bring into Lincoln or Omaha a couple of small porkers and parade with those picketing housewives and I believe one will see a marked cooperation between the producer and consumer to get at the "in-between" the 35 cents and $1-plus finished product.

Fighting The Battle

Lincoln, Neb.

Thank God for newspapermen like you. It is my considered opinion that the only thing that stands between the ordinary citizen and the complete loss of his constitutional rights is a vigorous free press peopled by courageous newspapermen like you enjoying your constitutional right to protect your sources.

What prompts me to write is your column, "Events In Perspective," in the May 1 Star. I was appalled at the recklessness of these federal agents and the abuse and intimidation they heaped upon these innocent people. This sort of thing is reaching epidemic proportions in this country. Only the press in this country, nailing every incident in the glare of publication, will stop this unwarranted use of excessive authority. Your column was right on. I agree with every word you said and urge you to continue to fight the erosion of individual liberty and privacy in this country. I feel that you are fighting my battle for me. I am grateful.

I am just an unknown, average citizen, if there is such a person. I am aware of the effort and thought you must put into this column. I admire your courage in telling it like it is.

They would have got away with Watergate except for the press. At times like this you must be proud to be a newspaperman. God help the or-

The Real Thing

Lincoln, Neb.

To this day, when possible, I enjoy a slab of gooseberry pie and well remember how painful were the sharp stickers that guarded every berry. How sour if one was tempted to bite into one! It took forever to get enough for a fat pie because they were a small berry, but, oh, how good and well worth the effort.

Dragging a bushel basket along the rows, Papa dug and I picked up the new potatoes. I remember the nasty bugs I had to knock off with a stick into a can of coal oil. Ugh! How I hated that job. But when Mama creamed potatoes with fresh new peas, I forgot the bad part.

Picking strawberries was a delight. How I ever picked enough for a meal, I wonder, as I must have eaten two out of three. But somehow I managed enough for the shortcake Mama was baking. Fat, juicy berries, with thick separated cream — those were the days of real strawberry shortcake.

Curtis Organizes Fuel Telegram

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nebraska Sen. Carl T. Curtis, as ranking minority member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, Friday spearheaded the latest effort to achieve a solution to the nation's fuel shortage.

Diesel Fuel Shortage Said Critical

McCook (AP) — The supply of diesel fuel in south central Nebraska is reaching the critical mark, according to one local supplier.

Bob Stunck of the Bunkstock Oil Co. said diesel has been under reduced allocation since last November.

The shortage now, he said, has forced the company to stop truck deliveries to some farm customers.

"We have the same amount as last year," he said, "but there are more people who want diesel fuel now."

"A year ago, people were telling us they could get it cheaper somewhere else — they don't say that now," he said.

Bunkstock said diesel fuel has risen up to six cents per gallon along Interstate 80. He also said that St. Catherine's Hospital had requested 12,000 gallons as a reserve in case the supply of natural gas was cut off.

"We called Mobil," he said, "and they couldn't get any."

He said propane allocations have been cut by 50 per cent with another cut expected.

Sex Bias Charged At Hall County Jail

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP)—Five actions have been filed in 11th District Court here alleging that "inadequate facilities" of the Hall County Jail constitute "cruel and unusual" punishment against female prisoners and discriminate against them because of their sex, it was reported.

The defendants in the cases were Hall County Sheriff Charles Headley and the county board of supervisors.

The actions were brought on behalf of five female prisoners currently incarcerated in the Curtis took the lead in preparing a telegram sent Friday afternoon to the acting director of the office of emergency preparedness, Darrell M. Trent, asking Trent to present a proposed plan for fuel allocation at a meeting next Tuesday.

Curtis also garnered support of other senators from an eight-state area, all of whom signed the telegram to Trent.

Representing agricultural states which stand to be greatly affected by a shortage of fuel, the senators from Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Oklahoma and Wyoming, all joined in asking Trent to prepare "a fuel allocation plan that recognizes the priority needs of agriculture."

According to the telegram, the senators indicate "some of our offices in recent days have been deluged with complaints from oil dealers who serve customers in the rural areas. The essence of these complaints is that the companies which for years have been supplying these dealers with fuel for agricultural purposes are now either cancelling contracts or sharply curtailing the amounts of fuel they will have to deliver this year."

Curtis said, "We can't afford to wait around for a post facto solution to this one. If we can't deliver fuel we can't produce and the whole country stands to lose."

Copies of the telegram were sent to presidential assistant Peter Flannigan, Cost of Living Council Chairman George Schultz and Secretary of Interior Rogers Morton.

2 Men Sought In Abduction Of Minister

Kearney (UPI) — Area authorities continued their search Friday for two men who reportedly abducted a Kearney minister Thursday and forced him to drive around the city at gunpoint.

The Rev. Larry Patterson told police the two men forced their way into his car when he stopped at a stop sign in Kearney. Two hours later they forced him out of the car about 12 miles south of Kearney near Axtell and drove away.

The Rev. Mr. Patterson walked to a television studio where he notified the Buffalo County sheriff of the abduction.

The car was found later near Minden.

Sales Up 10% In '72 For NPPD

COLUMBUS, Neb. (AP)—Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) ended the year 1972 with a 10 per cent increase in kilowatt-hour sales of electricity, the District reported.

Sales for the year totaled 5.2 billion kilowatt-hours.

Operating revenues from the 1972 sales of electricity increased to $65,614,717, up 19 per cent over a year ago but operating expenses rose 18.1 per cent, due primarily to higher labor and material costs and sharply increased fuel costs, the report said. Total net revenues for the year of the electric system, after all applicable deductions, were $7.5 million.

Total NPPD customer count at the end of the year was 156,940, including 66,327 served by operating agreements, the report said.

The District gave the following percentage breakdown of income: sales to wholesale customers, 59.6 per cent; residential sales 15.5 per cent; commercial sales, 10.5 per cent; industrial sales, 5.4 per cent; farm sales, 4.3 per cent; public authorities including street lighting, 2.6 per cent; all others, 2.1 per cent.

The District gave the following percentage breakdown for expenses:

Cost of power, 50.7 per cent; taxes, interest and other deductions, 11.3 per cent; administrative and general, customs accounting, 10.7 per cent; depreciation, 10.4 per cent; net for bond retirements, improvements, 8.6 per cent; and transmission and distribution expenses, 8.3 per cent.

Vacation Travelers Said On Road Early

Grand Island (AP) — The director of Grand Island's Stahr Museum says he thinks vacation travelers are leaving earlier this year, possibly because of fuel shortages.

Jack Learned says attendance at the museum is running more than 84 per cent ahead of last year at this time. He said more than 4,300 persons have visited the museum this year.

Learned said if a gasoline shortage keeps some tourists away, it could likely bring more area tourists to visit.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY: Retirees' Shop Fails To Produce Profit

By ROBERT PETERSON
QUESTION: — "I'd always dreamed about having a nice little retirement business. So after leaving the power company at 65, my wife and I dipped into our savings and started an antiques shop. We found a location that rents for $200 monthly, spent $2,500 fixing the place up, and put in $4,000 worth of stock. Folks tell us we've got a very attractive shop and the location is pretty good. But we barely meet expenses and haven't made a penny profit in a year and a half. We don't understand it. We're not dummies. Goods are marked for a 40% mark up. But the sales aren't sufficient. We've actually had days with no sales whatever. What should we do?"

ANSWER: — Your best bet is to inquire around and find someone who's retired from the retail business who might be willing to study your problem.

Johannesen, Nelsova Said Superb Musicians . . .

Critic Praises Husband-Wife Duo

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

New York Times music critic Harold Schonberg said Friday Nebraska has the good fortune of the talents of two of the world's finest musicians in the husband-wife duo of Grant Johannesen and Zara Nelsova.

Johannesen, said Schonberg, is a "marvelous pianist" who brings sensitivity to his work.

And Miss Nelsova, he said, is "one of the half-dozen world's greatest living cellists."

To Review Recital
Schonberg, in Lincoln Friday on his first trip to Nebraska, will be in Hyannis Saturday evening to review a recital by the Johannesens.

The Pulitzer Prize-winning critic decided to visit Nebraska at the suggestion of longtime friend D. B. Varner, president of the University of Nebraska.

It was Varner who won over Johannesen and Miss Nelsova to the idea of spending part of their year in the Cornhusker State as Nebraska's artists-in-residence.

The Hyannis concert will be one of the last in their first year here, but indications are they've agreed to return again in 1973-74 as university-sponsored artists for the state.

Pianist Under-rated
Schonberg, who had nothing but praise for the talents of the two artists, said he believes Johannesen is one of the world's most under-rated pianists.

He said Johannesen brings "beautiful tone" to his work.

Of both the artists, Schonberg said: "They're awfully good."

Asked, in an interview, if the Johannesens' decision to become part-time Nebraska artists-in-residence could be considered a coup for the state, Schonberg merely nodded his head.

"Woody (Varner) is a very persuasive person," said Schonberg, using almost identical words to those used by Johannesen himself last fall when he explained why he and his wife had decided to come here.

Interest Unusual
At a luncheon with Lincoln and Omaha area media representatives, Schonberg said Varner's own energetic interest in the arts is somewhat unusual for a university president.

He described Varner as "one of the most hospitable and imaginative university presidents" in terms of the world of arts.

Later, in the interview, Schonberg said Varner is "so right" about the university's role in the arts.

"Students should be exposed without being hit on the head," said Schonberg, and he said Varner has been highly successful in putting that attitude to work in action.

Schonberg arrived in Lincoln Thursday evening, got a taste of good Nebraska weather on the links of the Lincoln Country Club with Varner Friday morning and then met with faculty members of the UN-Lincoln School of Music in the afternoon.

He delivered a public lecture on the campus Friday evening and will travel to Hyannis with Varner's party Saturday for the recital at Hyannis High School.

25 Churches Seek To Force Grand Jury On Omaha Drugs

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Representatives of about 25 churches attended a meeting Thursday night to plan ways of requiring Douglas County to order a grand jury investigation of drug traffic in Omaha.

Robert T. Jones, head of a petition drive committee, said about 8,000 signatures of 11,260 required have been collected. State law requires a grand jury be called with 45 days after the signatures are received.

"We hope to get 8,500 additional signatures Sunday," he said. "Any churches that want petition forms can pick them up at my home."

Jones, a dairy department manager for Hinky Dinky grocery, said if a grand jury investigation is conducted it will disclose names of well known persons in Omaha who are financing narcotics operations.

Jones also said he has been informed, by sources he declined to disclose, that narcotics dealers who recently have been arrested and jailed have been replaced by new dealers.

Jones said his interest is due to concern for his family.

"Drugs are a problem in Omaha because they have increased the city's crime rate 10 to 15 per cent compared with last year," he said.

If sufficient signatures are collected, presiding District Judge John Burke would be required to organize a 16-member grand jury 15 days after signatures were verified by the county election commissioner.

The commissioner would have a maximum of 30 days to make the check.

Burke said Friday the question of whether to call a grand jury on the question was considered by the county's 12 district judges and they voted 9-3 against it in January.

The last county grand jury investigation was conducted in 1964 and resulted in indictments of Mayor James J. Dworak and other city officials on charges of corruption in city government. The judges voted to call the 1964 grand jury.

Omaha Printers Told To Cut Prices

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Most members of Local 190 of the International Typographical union walked off the job at the Omaha World-Herald Friday evening.

Their action followed an announcement by management that the union's recent actions constituted a strike and must be ended.

The company said it would continue to publish with management and other non-union personnel working in the composing room.

The 160-member union voted 129 to 6 last Sunday to authorize a strike.

Beginning Monday, the company said most printers refused to work on their days off when requested. On Wednesday, the union began to refuse to permit its members to work overtime before or after their regular shift, the company said. On Friday, management said, the day shift twice stopped work and held brief meetings on company time.

World-Herald President Harold W. Andersen announced Friday afternoon that the company was putting into effect at the beginning of the next shift some of the provisions of the last offer it made to the union in negotiations. He said that if the printers continued to refuse to work overtime, if they held any more unauthorized meetings and if they refused to work under the conditions the company had outlined, the company would consider them to be on strike.

Most of the day shift printers then left. The same statement was read to night shift printers and most of them also left.

Management said it expected the newspaper's seven other unions to report to work on schedule.

The company's final offer, which management said the union rejected, included:

—A 5.5 per cent increase in wages.

—Protection against layoffs because of new machinery during the working life of each of the 157 journeymen printers and apprentices on the payroll as of Jan. 1.

—Freedom for the company to use electronic equipment without restriction.

—Elimination of the practice of "bogus," which requires that a local advertisement supplied ready for publication be later marked up, reset in type, proofread, corrected and then thrown away.

Omaha (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) said Friday a statewide survey of auto dealers has resulted in nearly $278,000 in auto parts and accessory rollbacks.

In a preliminary report, the IRS said 281 Ford and General Motors dealers were contacted by the IRS. The report, covering 100% of the dealers, showed that 155 of them were not in compliance and that rollbacks totaling $277,937.51 were being made. Investigations are not yet complete on 22 dealers, the IRS said.

The check of auto dealers in Nebraska is part of a nationwide survey. It was triggered, the IRS said, by spot checks of auto dealers late last year in Tennessee and Virginia. These spot checks showed that dealers were selling parts and accessories in inventory at increased prices which caused them to exceed their allowable customary markups.

Under Economic Stabilization Regulations, dealers are not allowed to reprice inventory to reflect higher prices for new purchases. Supplies in inventory are required to be sold before prices can be increased.

If inventory items were repriced contrary to provisions in the regulations, the dealers are required to return the overcharged amount to the marketplace by discounting current sales of parts or accessories, the IRS said.

Criticism Claimed Behind Firing At Penal Complex

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

A suit claiming that a teacher at the Nebraska Penal Complex was fired for criticizing the prison administration in a news article he allegedly authored and for criticizing the prison administration at a meeting was filed Friday in U.S. District Court in Lincoln.

The suit, filed by John E. Pokorny, seeks a total of $57,800 in damages. Named as defendant is Charles Wolff Jr., warden of the Nebraska Penal Complex.

Pokorny contends that his right to exercise freedom of speech and his right to due process of law were violated by his dismissal.

According to the suit, Pokorny was hired on July 15, 1971, as a teacher at the Lancaster Vocational Academy at a salary of $600 every four weeks.

Called To Office

On May 9, 1972, the suit alleges, Wolff called Pokorny to his office and accused him of writing an article critical of the prison administration for the Lincoln Gazette, a so-called underground newspaper.

Wolff then told Pokorny he was being "fired for disloyalty to the institution," the suit claims.

At this meeting, the suit alleges, Wolff also told Pokorny that he should have fired him earlier for being openly critical of the prison administration during a March meeting on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus.

Notice Later

It was not until July 6, 1972, almost two months after he was dismissed, that Pokorny received a notice in the mail telling him that he was being fired for bringing contraband into the penal complex, the suit claims.

Wolff's claim that Pokorny brought contraband (allegedly copies of the Lincoln Gazette) into the penal complex is "entirely false and extremely misleading and was made in bad faith and with malice" toward Pokorny, the suit alleges.

The suit also alleges that Wolff caused copies of the notice of dismissal to be sent to private persons and public and private institutions, including a bank to which Pokorny had applied for a loan to purchase a home.

The suit also claims that Wolff caused an article to be published in a newspaper which, although not naming Pokorny, contained a threat from Wolff that serious criminal charges would be brought against Pokorny.

Woman Hurt In Collision With City Bus

A 54-year-old Lincoln woman suffered cuts to her forehead just before noon Friday when the car she was driving was in collision with a bus at 35th and I, police reported.

Police said Lorna M. Sanger, 843 So. 36th, was northbound on 35th when her vehicle was in collision with a Lincoln city bus driven eastbound on I. by John Ketsler 56 1927 So. 9th. He was not injured.

The Sanger woman was listed in "satisfactory" condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital Friday night. None of the 17 passengers in the bus suffered injury, police said.

Damage to the bus was confined to the center front, police said.

Guertling Faces Probation Violation Count

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Richard Guertling, on probation since October after treatment in the Lincoln Regional Center for sexual deviancy, has been charged with violation of probation, it was reported.

The charge, according to Deputy Douglas County Atty. Thomas Brown, stems from an alleged incident last month involving an 11-year-old Lincoln girl.

Brown said the girl was approached by a man who "asked her to accompany him to a house."

A hearing date has not been set. If the court finds Guertling guilty in violating probation, he could be sent to prison.

Guertling was judged a sexual psychopath five years ago and began treatment in Lincoln. He was placed on probation in October, authorities said, with the stipulation he return to the center each night.

Guertling has been held in a Lincoln jail the past three weeks in connection with a disturbing the peace by fighting charge.

"I chased the truck for two blocks," she said, "and the men were so nice, but they couldn't help me. The machinery had smashed everything together, and we couldn't get it until it was dumped."

At the dumping center, she joined the men in sorting through the refuse until they came upon the blue bag with the diamond ring intact.

Nuclear Device Readied

Workers at the site of Project Rio Blanco ready a 30-kilaton nuclear device designed to create a fracture zone 5,530 to 6,830 feet below ground level in Colorado. The objective is to permit the production of gas from gas-bearing sandstone. The lowering of the device set the stage for the May 17 detonation.

Veterans Enhance Strong 'King And I'

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

"The King and I" Rodgers and Hammerstein's durable star of stage and screen and unfortunate victim of television, was performed admirably Friday night by the Lincoln Community Playhouse.

The story line itself is a pleasant, amusing tale, but a successful production relies entirely on the singing and acting abilities of the King and Anna to hold the viewer's attention.

Nine of the eighteen numbers in the musical are sung by the King, Anna or both.

Talented Veterans The Lincoln Community Playhouse's production was blessed to have the abundant talents of two veterans of musicals — Don Pedersen as the King and Janet Wallace as Anna.

Mrs. Wallace brought to the stage cool professionalism and relaxed confidence which undoubtedly helped many of less experienced cast members through the evening.

Pedersen stomped and fumed convincingly around the stage as the arrogant monarch of Siam. But his true versatility was demonstrated by his strong voice, which was surprising for his relatively small stature.

Together they combined to instill a confidence in the cast which resulted in remarkably few opening night mishaps.

Promising Team The marriage of the Lincoln Youth Symphony with the Playhouse in this production left those present with the hope that the promising team will continue next season. Except for some annoying strident notes from the brass section, the Youth Symphony's efforts meshed flawlessly with Pedersen and Mrs. Wallace's singing.

An obvious stand-out in the production was Lana Ives as the Burmese concubine Tuptim. Her rendition of "My Lord and Master" indicated that her talents far surpass her support.

Crosby Opposes Weakening Authority Of Governor's Office

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Another former Republican governor, Robert Crosby of Lincoln, Friday expressed concern about legislation which would dilute the governor's control over the Department of Administrative Services.

"If the effect of the bill is to reduce the governor's power to administer the executive branch of state government, then I think it is the wrong direction to go," Crosby said.

But Crosby stressed that he has not studied the provisions of the bill, LB452, nor has he had any experience with DAS, the centralized budgeting and accounting agency created in 1965. Crosby was governor from 1953 to 1955.

Action Scheduled

The Legislature passed LB452 earlier this week. Gov. J. James Exon, a Democrat, promptly vetoed the measure, and an effort to override his objections is scheduled for next week.

Former Govs. Norbert Tiemann, a Republican, and Frank Morrison, a Democrat, had earlier expressed opposition to the bill, supporting Exon's contention that it would weaken the office of governor.

Crosby said he is aware of the statements of Tiemann and Morrison and has read newspaper accounts of the controversy "with interest."

But, he is "not very familiar" with the contents of the bill itself, he noted.

Weaker Than Many

"However, based on my experience, I found that the office of governor in Nebraska is a weaker arm of government than it is in many states."

"I do share the feeling of others who have served as governor that the governor's power to administer the laws should not be lessened in Nebraska."

Crosby said three major factors already weaken the governor's authority in Nebraska:

a number of other elected constitutional officers who, in many states, are appointed by the governor;

a non-partisan Legislature, leaving the governor without the ability to ask for party loyalty in the Legislature; a gradual increase since the 1920 constitutional convention in the number of state functions administered by boards and commissions.

LB452 would transfer some of the governor's control over DAS to a five-member Governmental Services Commission composed of five elected constitutional officers, including the chief executive.

The bill cleared the Legislature on a 27-14 vote. Thirty votes will be required to override Exon's veto.

Camper Blows Off Pickup; 2 Injured

Two people were injured Friday evening when a camper blew off a pickup truck two miles east of Cheney on Highway 2 and into the path of an oncoming semi-truck tractor, State Patrolman E. W. Osborne reported.

Osborne said an eastbound pickup truck driven by Edwin F. Barryman, of Bennett, had the camper blown off by a gust of wind. The camper then hit the highway and slid into the path of the westbound tractor driven by Michael S. Little, 28, of 6954 Fairfax, Osborne said.

Little's wife, Marsha, 24, who was a passenger in the tractor suffered back and neck injuries and severe facial cuts when the tractor hit the camper and rolled into the ditch, Osborne reported.

She was listed in "serious" condition Friday night at St. Elizabeth Community Health Center, while her husband was treated for shoulder and arm injuries, Osborne said. He said there was not enough of it left to determine its value. He said the tractor sustained about $12,000 to $13,000 damage, but would be repairable.

Prison Inmates To Display Artistic Talents

BY GRACIA SIEB

Between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, May 6, an art exhibition and benefit art auction will be held at The Cedars Home For Children, 6401 Pioneers.

The event will feature 125 works by inmates of the Nebraska Penal and Correctional Complex, who are members of the Complex Art Guild. Although the 25 members of the Guild have participated in several shows in Lincoln and Omaha during the past year, this is their first auction.

Explaining that the Guild members wished "to do something for someone else," two of the artists — Duane Secrest and Joe Cannito — stated that Cedar Home will receive a percentage of the sales profits. They added that the auction also will give regular contributors an opportunity to receive some tangible evidence of their donations.

The works to be displayed and sold will include primarily oil and acrylic paintings, intermingled with pieces in watercolor and pastels and pen and charcoal drawings. The subject matter and artistic methods with which the artists have dealt are as versatile as their media and included among the many themes are black, impressionistic or pop art, landscapes, portraits and still life.

According to Messrs. Cannito and Secrest, most of the club members begin as novice artists and average from three to seven paintings a month. A large part of the artists in the club begin their creations with no prior training, and many are drawn to the skill by curiosity or by the need to find something which will occupy their time and minds.

Although the inmates receive minimal professional instruction from persons such as William Evans, chairman of the art department at Nebraska Wesleyan University, and assistance from one another, they encounter many problems in pursuing and developing their artistic talents.

The most prevalent is the lack of adequate facilities and equipment. The two artists stated that often they work in their cells, where the lighting is poor and there is little working space. Also, the initial expense for equipment is $30 or $40 for only the bare necessities of oils, two canvases and five or six brushes. At a wage of $3.50 a month for duties performed at the penitentiary, the balance of money for these supplies would be inaccessible without loans from the club treasury, which receives percentage remunerations from paintings sold by the artists.

In addition, the men create most of their works from recollections of the outside world and through their own innovative techniques. Scenic magazines of landscapes and various animals, along with educational books on recent and basic methods of artistic endeavors would be of immeasurable assistance to the novice. These commodities, however, are not readily available within the confines of the Penal and Correctional Complex.

In spite of the working conditions and deficiency of supplies, the inmates produce excellent work of professional merit. Prime examples are the three paintings pictured above, the two scenic works were created by Thomas Alvarez, and Harold Becker is the artist responsible for the frontier painting. Further illustrating the expertise of the prison artists is the fact many contract work for purchase by the Complex personnel.

Goal Is Aiding Others

By LINDA OLIG

Recycling and all it stands for — preserving the environment, anti-wastefulness, and ecology — came into widespread popularity during the late 1960s and early 1970s. It has been so widely accepted and understood that it is a way of life today.

However, recycling is nothing new to the Lancaster County Community Emergency Shop. It has been carrying on the business of recycling since 1931.

Founded during the Depression, the Emergency Shop has the purpose of giving to persons in need. Nothing is ever sold.

The county-operated shop, which takes on many aspects of a department store, will have its annual open house on Sunday afternoon, May 6. The open house and tour will be held between the hours of 12:30 and 4 o'clock.

Located in the County Health and Welfare Building at 2200 St. Mary's Ave., the shop had its origins in a building at 11th and K Sts.

Low-income persons and others with requisitions from accredited agencies — including Lancaster County Public Welfare, Lincoln Public Schools, Red Cross, Police Department, LARC School, Malone Community Center, Veterans Service Center, City Mission, City Health Department, and Catholic Social Service Bureau — are entitled to obtain recycled items from the shop on a monthly basis.

Available there are such necessities of life as clothing, shoes, bedding, dishes, cooking utensils, household articles, and much, much more — all of which have been donated by concerned citizens and refurbished by individuals and organizations which offer many volunteer hours to the County Emergency Shop's needs.

According to Mrs. Luella Hurley, shop director, 250 families and nearly one thousand individuals were served by the facility during the month of March — and that, placed in dollar figures saved the county an estimated $6,966.30.

Mrs. Hurley, who has been associated with the County Emergency Shop for the past 15 years, sees her position as a day in, day out process of meeting people and being a part of instilling some happiness in the lives of those less fortunate than herself.

"I enjoy (my work) to the high heavens," she said, noting that liking people is her hobby and that it brings her a great deal of happiness to see the men, particularly, "get good looking clothes, and go out and get a job."

Being director of the shop is a selfless job for Mrs. Hurley whose happiness is vicarious, receiving it from giving similar happiness, if only material, to others.

Mrs. Hurley, pictured above, also enjoys giving little toys — made by members of church groups throughout the city — to the children who frequent the shop, as well as assisting them in selecting new garments. Pictured with Mrs. Hurley are, from left to right, Elzira Henderson, Joe Henderson, and Grace Kopynski.

Bride-Elect, Fiance Honored

The round of prenuptial courtesies honoring bride-elect Miss Janet Lampshire, whose marriage to Bruce Hess will be an event of Saturday, June 23, began on Wednesday evening, May 2 when Mrs. George Lincoln was hostess at her home for a mother-daughter get-together. Mrs. Jeff Johnson was assistant hostess, and during the party, guests presented the soon-to-be bride with a china, crystal and pottery shower.

The next evening, Thursday, May 3, Mr. Hess was honored at a handyman shower which took place at the Briarhurst Clubhouse. Hosts for the event were Jeff Johnson and Dean Hatfield.

Only A Moment To Relax

An airline stewardess and an assistant football coach who is a former guard on the Cornhusker team and who will play with the Green Bay Packers next season, really don't know the meaning of a relaxing moment.

The airline stewardess (past tense) is Miss Jeannie Simmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd A. Simmons of Englewood, Colo., and the football player is Keith Wortman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin H. Wortman of Anaheim, Calif., and their wed-dning will take place this evening at the Sheridan Lutheran Church.

A few relaxing moments were experienced by Miss Simmons and her fiancé on Friday evening when, just before taking off for the wedding rehearsal — then on to The Villager for a prenuptial dinner, they had a few quiet moments at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Mouden where Mr. Wortman's parents are houseguests, and where the group was joined by Mr. and Mrs. Simmons.

Mr. and Mrs. Wortman were the host and hostess at the dinner which honored their son and Miss Simmons, and out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fox of Casper, Wyo., and Mrs. Sherry Burkland and her daughter, Jeannette of Moline, Ill.

Friday Wedding

On Friday evening, May 4, the wedding of Miss Deborah Batten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Batten, and Norman G. Schulte, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Heller, took place at St. Mary's Church.

Mrs. Alan Barnard was the matron of honor, and completing the foursome of the bride's attendants were Miss Mary Carlotto, the maid of honor; Miss Mary Hafemeister, the bridesmaid, and Miss Sandra Batten who was her sister's junior bridesmaid.

Alan Schulte of Lincoln served his brother as best man, and the groomsmen were Alan Barnard, James Long and William R. Batten.

The bride appeared in a gown of lace, and chiffon-over-satin in the antique white shade. The Elizabethan bodice of lace was fashioned with a high, straight collar, and long, full sleeves, and beneath the cummerbund waistline the chiffon-over-satin skirt was bordered with a double row of lace ruffling at the hemline. Her floorlength veil of illusion was held to the head with bows of antique-toned satin.

Mr. Batten and his bride will reside in Lincoln.

Royal And Regal, Angle Light Shrug Off Health Problems

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Royal and Regal and Angle Light apparently shrugged off minor health problems Friday and were pronounced ready for the 99th Kentucky Derby.

Although neither was in serious trouble, even a hangnail demands attention on the eve of the race so beloved that it creates turf fans for a day the world over.

Trainer Jimmy Croll sent A. I. Savin's Royal and Regal to the Churchill Downs track for a three-furlong blowout to insure that a slight injury on the right front heel was healing.

Then Edwin Whittaker's Angle Light caused a backstretch stir when he bled slightly from the right nostril after a leisurely gallop.

Croll explained that Royal and Regal cut the ankle in last week's Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland and that dirty water on the ground here earlier this week apparently infected it.

"It really wasn't serious, but it came at the wrong time and scared the heck out of us," the Pennsylvania native said.

Angle Light's bleeding prompted a quick call for Dr. Robert Copelan, a prominent veterinarian, who made a complete examination and pronounced the horse fit, an assistant trainer said.

The help wanted sign was removed from Joseph Kellman's Sheeky Greene after Larry Adams was hired to ride him in the Derby. Braulio Baeza decided to try his luck Saturday with Blue Grass Stakes winner My Gallant.

Sammy Towne, who galloped both horses Friday, said Sheeky Greene showed more pep and vinegar. "Just like My Gallant did before the Blue Grass."

The pre-Derby tension settled, as usual, into quiet jitters as the dozen colts and one gelding got the finishing touches for their bids for the greatest prize in thoroughbred racing.

Lazy F. Ranch's Forego, the gelding in the field, blew out three-eighths of a mile in :35.15.

a little faster than trainer Sherill Ward had expected.

"I was looking for him to go in about 36 and change, but he wanted to run," Ward said after a conference with exercise boy Pinky Hurley. "I'm more than satisfied."

Owned by Mrs. William Farish of Houston, and Mrs. Edward Gerry of Westbury, N. Y., Forego is the tallest of the Derby starters at 17 hands.

Also on the track for a brief romp for Saturday's 5:40 p.m. EDT, Derby was E.E. Elzemeyer's Warbucks, the hope for a second Derby victory for trainer Don Combs of Dust Commander fame.

"I realize he's an outsider, but, frankly, I'd rather have an outsider than the favorite," Combs said of the colt named for Elzemeyer's father-in-law.

"There's more pressure on the trainer and jockey of the favorite," he added.

NU FINALE TODAY

Spring Toil Ends For Gridders

By HAL BROWN

Nebraska football coach Tom Osborne, winding up his first spring drills as the Husker head man, isn't trying to fool anyone by telling them a Saturday afternoon scrimmage, whether it be in the middle of spring practice or as the wind-up game, is like playing UCLA.

But he is hoping his cast of graders, split into Red and White teams for the annual Spring Intrasquad Game at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Memorial Stadium, will put on an interesting and an error-free as possible showing for the fans.

"Regardless of how they (the players) look," he says, "we (the coaches) know pretty much what we've got."

"The one thing I hope for is that they have good execution without a lot of fumbles and jumping offside and such. You hope that you don't have a ragged performance and that it's interesting for the fans."

Osborne, who is abandoning the usual custom of the head coach watching a Spring Game from the pressbox to roam the sidelines, stresses that an intrasquad affair can never really be conducted under exact game-type conditions.

"The offense knows how the defense is going to line up," he points out. "And the defense knows all the offensive plays. The one thing that is taken away is the element of surprise."

But Osborne, like his predecessor, Bob Devaney, is not in favor of varsity-alumni games that would more closely resemble game-type conditions.

"In a varsity-alumni game, you get to look at only about half as many players," he says. "We'll get to look closely at 80 to 85 players Saturday and everyone will get to play."

In an alumni game, you'd only get to see 40 to 45 players. Then, too, it's difficult for alumni players to get in good physical condition and it's hard for an alumni team to get prepared properly and to give a polished performance.

Although conditions will be little different than a normal Saturday afternoon scrimmage, Osborne says he looks for his graders to give an enthusiastic effort.

"The players have gotten fired up for our normal Saturday scrimmages," he praises. "And I think they'll get enthused for this one. There's always fair emotions involved in any scrimmage."

For some of the Huskers, Saturday's confrontation will be a final chance to put on film a showing that will warrant their being invited back next fall.

For others, it will be another chance to put on film a bid for a starting berth.

There will be no No. 1 vs. No. 1 tussle with the Red team being composed of the top offensive and defensive units. Their replacements will come primarily from the fourth unit.

The second and third units make up the White team.

The starting Red offensive lineup will have only two starters from a year ago with Daryl White at left tackle and David Humm at quarterback.

Frosty Anderson has moved ahead of 1972 starter Bob Revelle at split end and Alan Austin has replaced last year's starting right tackle, Marvin Crenshaw. Both Revelle and Crenshaw will be wearing Red jerseys, however.

Bob Wolfe, the 1972 starter at left guard until sidelined with a knee injury, is the only 1972 starter on the White unit. Tom Alward has won the starting job

Bonness and Davis are the only two sophomores on the top offensive unit.

And there are nearly as many newcomers on the defensive unit with the only 1972 starters returning being Steve Manstedt at left end, John Dutton at right tackle, Randy Borg at right cornerback and Bob Thornton, a late-season starter a year ago, at safety.

bearer appeared to be dozing, but snapped to attention when his name was called by a passerby.

Secretariat goes in the $125,000-added Derby that will be the richest in history if all 13 start as a betting entry with Angle Light since both are trained by Lucien Laurin.

The Churchill Downs handicapper has pegged that entry as the even money favorite to take home the winner's share of $155,050 with Sigmund Sommer's Sham as second choice at 7-2.

Weather for the Derby, to be seen on television (CBS) from 5-6 p.m. EDT, and heard on radio (CBS) from 5:15-5:45, is predicted as sunny and mild with almost no chance of rain before post time.

THE LONGEST SHOT... Gold Bag, housed in stall 13, will start from the No. 13 post position.

Claiborne Farm—Where It Begins

By RED SMITH ©The New York Times

Paris, Ky. — If you want to see where it all began, all the planning and striving and dreaming and plain hard work that will culminate Saturday afternoon in the two-minute melodrama of the 99th Kentucky Derby, then the best place to look is here on the sweet green acres of Claiborne Farm. Here in the earth-floored breeding shed the favorite Secretariat was conceived four years ago. Up there in that black barn on the hill Secretariat's prime challenger, Sham, was born to the mare Sequoia on April 9, 1970. These are the fields where Sham played as a yearling, growing into the handsome colt that New York's Sigmund Sommer bought for $200,000 last November in the dispersal sale that followed the death of the master of Claiborne, Bull Hancock.

Here is something royal, Secretariat's 21-year-old mother who belongs to the Meadow Stable of Doswell, Va., but keeps coming back for dates with Claiborne stallions. She never beat a fat man in a race but she has been bearing winners for years and years. Secretariat was her 13th foal. After him she gave Meadow Stable a son of First Landing named Capital Assets, now two years old, then a colt by Northern Dancer, and that foal at her side now is by Jacinto.

This big brown horse is Sham's sire Pretense, who won just short of a half-million for Mrs. Cloyce Tiptopp. Sommer had to outbid Liz Tiptopp to get Sham, who is a member of Pretense's first crop, and she was as happy as the owner when the colt won the Santa Anita Derby.

Here's Sequoia, whose babies are few but seldom slow. Since bearing Sham she has had only one foal, a daughter of Pronto now two years old. She has just been pronounced in foal to Pretense, so Sham has a brother or sister on the way.

Not far from the breeding shed is a row of headstones. "Princequillo," read the graven characters on one, "1940-1964." Maternal grandfather of both Secretariat and Sham, Princequillo was a tremendous brood mare sire who transmitted his own staying power to some of our finest distance runners.

A stride or so away lies Secretariat's other grandsire, the tempestuous Nasrullah, and beyond him is the grave of his son Bold Ruler. Secretariat's father, America's reigning lover before cancer took him down in 1971.

Now a stud groom leads out a handsome stallion with a white star and a grossly swollen ankle on the right rear leg. This is unbeaten Hoist The Flag, whose girl friends are just now producing his first babies. Of all the horses in Kentucky, this one may offer the most striking object lesson in the poignant uncertainty of the turf.

Two years ago Hoist The Flag was probably an even more commanding favorite than Secretariat was before his recent defeat in the Wood Memorial. Men who saw his meteoric races swore there wasn't a horse in the land who could warm him up. He was a mortal cinch, they said, to sweep the Derby, Preakness and Belmont stakes for the American Triple Crown. Not only did he fail to get to those races, he is lucky to be alive.

Hoist The Flag's uncommon quality was recognized early by his trainer, Sid Watters, who nursed the colt along so cautiously that it was September of his two-year-old season before he made his first start. He won easily, and in his second race he finished 12 lengths ahead of Eastern Fleet, who would fail by only a neck to take third money in the Derby.

Hoist The Flag won the Cowdin Stakes with authority from a distinguished company that included Limit To Reason, Executioner, Twist The Axe and Salem. He won the Champagne Stakes going away but was disqualified just as Secretariat was in the same event last fall. In the champagne Jim French, destined to lose the Derby to Canonero II by three and a quarter lengths, was almost eight lengths back of Hoist The Flag.

Watters rested the colt through the winter, bringing him out as a three-year-old at Bowie in March. He galloped by 15 lengths. In the Bay Shore Sakes he opened seven lengths on Droll Role with Jim French and Limit To Reason farther back. That was the fifth race of his life, and the last. Back at Belmont training him for the Wood, Watters waited late one morning until the track had been harrowed smooth before sending him out for a routine work. The horse was going easily when the sesamoid bone in his ankle snapped. Trying to run away from pain, he pounded the bones to powder.

Any ordinary horse with such an injury would have been put to sleep immediately. Fighting for this one's life, doctors managed to patch him up with a bone graft from his shoulder He came down to Claiborne wearing a cast.

"The first plan was to walk him until the breeding season," says Bull Hancock's son Seth. "But then it was decided that if he was going to be a stud here he should be treated like the others. They turned him out in his paddock and he came around to look like this. When Sid Watters saw him this spring, he whistled."

"He's only five years old," he said. "I might just put a saddle on him and bring him back."

Van Berg Enters 2 In Ak Feature

By MARK GORDON

Omaha — Jack Van Berg, who has captured the Ak-Sar-Ben trainer championship the past 14 years, has a double-barrel assault planned for Saturday's Beef Steak Handicap at Ak-Sar-Ben.

The Columbus native has entered his standout 5-year-old competitor Joey Bob, who he owns with former major league baseball player Joe Adcock, and Beira, who is owned by Texas millionaire Nelson B. Hunt.

That entry, which had Leroy Moyers named on both runners, will probably be the favorite of the 11 horses entered.

Traditionally an overnight handicap, the Beef Steak Handicap will be run as a stakes race Saturday for the first time. The purse will be $20,000, added for the 6-furlong sprint.

Joey Bob, top-weighted at 121 pounds, ranked as the second leading money winner last year at Ak-Sar-Ben, trailing only British Fleet, another Van Berg horse, who died in a mishap in Michigan last summer.

The black colt won four and showed once for earnings of $80,048. Among his victories were the two featured attractions for older horses—the $56,750 Conhusker Handicap and the $54,500 Board of Governors Handicap.

He also captured the $22,400 George Brandeis Memorial Handicap.

His running mate, Beira, has won two of four contests this year for $11,000. Both victories were at 6 furlongs at Santa Anita.

Second-top-weighted at 120 pounds by racing secretary John Malvius is C.L. Warner's Prince Astro, an invader from Oaklawn Park.

Prince Astro, who finished second to King Hoss in last year's $22,275 4-H Handicap here, has won three of five Oaklawn races, including the $50,000 Oaklawn Handicap. His earnings this year have exceeded $75,000.

Floyd Sluka's Stromvogel has been assigned 116 pounds. His proudest moment at Ak-Sar-Ben came in the 1971 Omaha Gold Cup Stakes, when he collected $24,791.25 of a $45,075 purse. He was an upset winner paying $54.80.

Ak-Sar-Ben's two-time defending jockey champion J.L. Lively is set to guide Ken Opstein's Haveago, a 6-year-old horse. Opstein purchased Haveago for $150,000.

Swift Capture, who won the $4,000 President's Cup and the $5,000 Executive Board Handicap at last summer's State Fairgrounds meeting, has been assigned low-weight of 109 pounds. The 6-year-old horse is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ed J. Nickolte of Monroe.

Other entrants and weights include Fast Gas (117), Vindictum (115), Revenyne and Old Thunder (each at 113), and Banners Quest (111).

In Friday's featured seventh race, Sumie Ford's Fleet Honey collected her second victory in three 1973 starts by winning a 5 1/2-furlong allowance test.

Fleet Honey, a 6-year-old black mare who ran second in last year's Ak-Sar-Ben Queen's Handicap, was clocked in 1:04 1/5 in the chase for a $7,500.

Ridden by Burl McBride, Fleet Honey paid $4.60, $3.60 and $2.80 while Naute Haute placed for $6.80 and $4.20. Kota Call showed for $7.00.

Funds For Penal Buildings Sought

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln Friday said he hopes to reach agreement with the Appropriations Committee to commit the 1973 Legislature to construction funding for a new correctional diagnostic and evaluation center for adults.

Luedtke, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, said he also wants sufficient planning funds appropriated for a new medium minimum security prison to allow a "huts to draw final plans for the structure."

The budget committee Thursday recommended initial planning funds only for the two structures, with no commitment for construction funding in the following year.

Planning funds proposed by the committee would total $79,000.

But Luedtke cautioned Friday that the appropriations unit and his judiciary team are not that far apart on the issue.

"I have conferred with

Parole Idea Opposed By Meyer

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Att. Gen. Clarence A.H. Meyer informed state Sen. Roland A. Luedtke Friday he opposes a pending proposal which would remove from the state Parole Board the right to say whether a Penal Complex inmate should be released for furloughs and work release.

Such a proposal had come from Luedtke's Judiciary Committee as an amendment to a pending Legislative Bill 524 which would increase membership on the Parole Board from three to five.

In a letter to Luedtke Meyer said the change would violate the state Constitution by removing the authority of the Board of Parole or Board of Pardons to determine if a prisoner should be allowed to leave the institution during his term.

"I would also oppose such a change as a citizen because we have had wardens in the distant past and we could again have in the future who should not have the unsupervised authority to release prisoners for unlimited periods of time," Meyer wrote.

Meyer's letter also objected to some provisions of the bill setting out the rights of persons called up for parole revocation hearings.

Writing Ability Report Slated For Ed Board

The Lincoln Board of Education will hear reports on an assessment of writing ability and on the kindergarten inventory at a meeting Tuesday which begins at 8 a.m. in the Public Schools Administration building.

The two reports are scheduled for about 9 a.m. as part of the regular report of the associate superintendent for instruction.

In other matters, the board will consider a recommendation to sell the now unused Willard School to the highest bidder for progress report on negotiations and review school system trends for 1973-74.

PUBLIC NOTICES

Your right to know—and be informed of the functions of your government are embodied in public notices paid for by government so that all citizens may be informed.

NOTICE TO SUPPLIERS OF DRAPERIES, LINENS AND NURSING HOME EQUIPMENT

Sealed bids will be received by the State of Nebraska, Department of General Services, Lincoln, Nebraska, until 10:00 a.m., May 10, 1973, for the purchase of draperies, linens and nursing home equipment. Bids should be addressed to the State of Nebraska, Department of General Services, Lincoln, Nebraska 68508.

The next meeting of the Nebraska Power Review Board will be May 9, 1973, in the Board's offices located at 1220 J Street, Lincoln, Nebraska. The meeting will convene at 9:00 A.M. An agenda of the meeting will be available at the Board's offices.

Senator Marvel, and I believe the Appropriations Committee is sympathetic to penal reform and honestly striving to perfect a plan toward that end," Luedtke said.

What we are talking about now is a timetable of development and a commitment for construction.

Marvel is chairman of the appropriations unit.

"Very Much Concerned"

I continue to be very much concerned that we implement the penal reform plan as rapidly as possible," Luedtke said.

This committee had asked the Appropriations Committee to approve $5.9 million in construction funds for a new medium-minimum security prison, replacing the Men's Reformatory, and $2 million in construction funds for the adult diagnostic center.

"The diagnostic center is the nerve center of the entire correctional system," Luedtke said. "If we do not get it off the ground as soon as possible, the whole penal and correctional reform plan will be unnecessarily delayed."

Since it will take time to draw architectural plans for the structure, Luedtke noted, we may not need an actual construction appropriation until next year.

"Need Commitment"

But we need a commitment for those funds now," he suggested.

In approving initial planning money for the structure and for the new prison, the Appropriations Committee bypassed a three-year capital improvement plan which would have committed the Legislature to construction during fiscal 1974-75 and 1975-76.

"I do not construe that decision in the light of a rejection," Luedtke said. "But I do think we need some positive action to provide a commitment to construct those facilities."

Luedtke said he was "very grateful and pleased" with the appropriations unit's recommendation for $637,000 in remodeling funds for corrections administrative offices and creation of a juvenile diagnostic center.

Those facilities are needed," he said.

Two Named To Welfare High Posts

State Welfare Director Lawrence Graham has appointed Robert S. Wright to the post of chief of management and data processing for the department and Scott L. Mullis as chief of research and statistics.

Wright, 41, ended a 20-year career with the U.S. Air Force as a lieutenant colonel in 1972 and is currently working toward a Ph.D. in business administration at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Mullis, 29, has taught at Wayne State College and is presently an instructor at UNL, also working toward his doctorate.

The two succeed Noel Lutkowski as data chief and Richard Nelson as research chief, both resigned to take jobs with other welfare agencies.

Wright's appointment is effective May 17. Mullis will assume part-time duties May 1 and full-time duties June 1.

2 Lincoln Holiday Inns Sold

Lincoln's two Holiday Inn Motels have been sold to Wine and International of Cincinnati, Ohio, for $3.1 million, according to deeds filed Friday in the Lancaster County Register of Deeds office.

According to the deeds, the Holiday Inn at the Lincoln Municipal Airport was sold for $1,622,000 while the motel at 5250 Cornhusker was sold for $1,565,000.

Approximately 10 acres of land were involved with the sale.
